5.3.3a Women's Access Schemes for Mentoring

Psychological Counselling and Mentoring – Special Focus on Girl Students

The institution places special emphasis on the psychological well-being, personal safety, and holistic development of girl students by providing a supportive, secure, and confidential counselling environment. Girl students are encouraged to openly share their personal, emotional, social, and academic concerns without hesitation.

Qualified counsellors, women faculty mentors, and faculty advisors are available to provide individual guidance and emotional support to girl students. Special counselling sessions are conducted to help them overcome personal challenges, manage academic stress, build self-confidence, develop interpersonal skills, and handle emotional difficulties.

Particular attention is given to issues related to personal well-being, relationships, peer pressure, self-esteem, career aspirations, and challenges faced during their academic journey. Confidentiality is maintained throughout the counselling process to ensure that students feel comfortable and secure while seeking assistance.

Through continuous mentoring, individual counselling, and timely intervention, the institution strives to empower girl students to overcome challenges, make informed decisions, develop resilience, and achieve academic excellence while maintaining positive mental and emotional well-being.
