NO-MOBILE-PHOBIA

How many times have you looked at your phone in the last hour? If you're like most, the answer is probably more than a few times. Here are some symptoms that says you are addicted to social media and your smartphone.

- Feeling anxious whenever you do not have your phone in your physical possession
- Constantly checking the phone for new texts, coupled with the compulsion to respond to them immediately
- You feel that your phone just vibrated. Only after looking into it, you realize it's a false alarm
- You can't stop scrolling Facebook or Instagram feeds
- You get panicked or urged to recharge your battery immediately when your phone is dead
- In a social event or a public place, you pull out your phone even though there was no need

How addiction works?

It starts with the release of 'Dopamine'. What's dopamine? It's a neurotransmitter chemical that makes you feel good. Our brains are designed to release dopamine when we do something that meets a survival need, like eating. Many studies have shown that using smartphone causes the release of dopamine in our brains, making us feel aroused, motivated, and happy.

It's similar to how people get addicted to alcohol, tea, coffee or any other drug. When we drink tea, it makes us feel refreshed, which in turn makes us feel good, again which in turn our brain registers that it likes tea, in the form of a 'dopamine hit'.

But each time you did something that prompted the release of dopamine, your brain started to notice a pattern. Soon enough, your brain began to associate 'cell phone' with 'dopamine.' Since your brain naturally craves easy hits of dopamine, it started to crave your phone.

So why and how social media apps are designed to be addictive?

Let's first see the 'how' part with a little experiment:

In 1930, B.F Skinner, an American psychologist, carried an experiment to study the behavior of pigeons. In his experiment he made three cases of study on pigeons.

In the first case, the pigeon was locked in a box and whenever it pecked a button, it received food. So, the pigeon knew that it should peck the button to receive food. In the second case, the same pigeon was given food at the interval of 60 secs despite the button being pressed (pecked).

So, the pigeon stopped pecking the button because it knew that the food would be delivered at certain intervals. In the third case, the pigeon was given food at random intervals which raised the uncertainty alarm in its brain. So, it started to peck more often and became aggressive. So, the bottom line is, 'uncertainty' made the pigeon to go crazy.

In the same way Facebook and Instagram and every app's notification system is designed to induce and manipulate the human's dangerous weakness “the uncertainty”, which makes us often to check for any new updates like how many likes I have got? did I get any message? or anticipating what's next from the limbo of endless scrolling in Facebook, Instagram etc.,

Now, the 'why' part!

Every app that makes you feel good, either it may be a social media apps like Facebook, Instagram, YouTube etc., or games like PUBG, candy crush etc., are designed to engage users for long time on their platform. Why? The Reason is 'Advertisements'. The more you spend your time on these platforms/services more Ads are shown to you. So they can generate tons and tons of money indirectly from you. Keep this in mind “if something is free, then you are the product”. They design their app with you in their mind so that they can study your behavior and show content based on your past activities or even manipulate your emotions on their platform by tracking your activities across the internet. So basically, social media is trying to hack into your brain and give you pleasure in the form of dopamine hits whenever you get a new notification, funny videos etc.,

What should you do?

We all live in a busy world. In this busy life, on average, a person will have 50,000 thoughts every day in which 95% of them are repeated. So, there is a very little space or time for us to allow new thoughts. But, when you realize that you live in this 'repeating life', you will recognize how the world is running around you. Now you'll see each and every action in our daily life is not in your control but the power lies in media, entertainment and advertising.

Instead of allocating time in your brain for an app that reserves your time when it sends out a new notification (ding sound), spend “your” time and allow a new thought on your own. It's nothing to be ashamed of getting bored, in fact, many studies shows that boredom allows a person to plan his/her future and allow someone to make new thoughts. Yes, it is easy to get temporarily satisfied with the rewards from the so called “virtual world” social media than the real physical world, which is filled with hurdles and it is hard to get a single reward. But which one do you prefer? the easiest yet ineffective pleasure (reward) from virtual world or a little harder yet real pleasure from physical world?

You feel that your phone just vibrated. Only after looking into it, you realize it's a false alarm

Some suggestions (definitely not an advice)

1. Uninstall the app that you feel spending your most time on
2. Understand the science/psychology behind the addiction
3. Feel the difference for, at least, one week without obsessing over a smartphone and social medias.

I'm just saying even elixir turns poisonous when taken in excess.

சந்தை

சந்தை கூட்ட நெரிசலில் சிக்கி மதியமானது காலை,
அங்குமிங்கும் கடைகள் கூட சிக்கணமானது சாலை.
கைவண்டி கடைகள் ஒருபக்கம்,
கட்டிட கடைகள் ஒருபக்கம்,
கரைந்திடும் கூட்டம் ஒருபக்கம்,
கையேந்தும் பெரியோர் ஒருபக்கம்.
எந்த தரம் உயர்ந்தது என்றே
எண்ணி வாங்கும் ஒரு கூட்டம்.
எட்டாக்கணியாய் விலைகள் இருக்க,
எல்லாம் வாங்கிட காதலி துடிக்க,
காசில்லா காதலன் மனதில் இருப்பது
கண்ணீர் விடுவதா கழற்றி விடுவதா.
ஏற்றத் தாழ்வு சமூகத்தில்
எல்லா ஜனமும் ஓரிடத்தில்,
அனைவர் மனதிலும் ஒரு கேள்வி
எதற்கு வந்தது ஜி.எஸ்.டி?
நடுத்தர குடும்பம் கடைத்தெரு வந்தால்
பாதி பணமது பேருந்து கட்டணம்,
மீதி பணமது சிக்கணமாய் தீர்க்கணும்.
மண்டையை பிளக்கும் மதியத்தின் வெயில்,
மாதுக்கள் சூழ்ந்த மலிவுவிலை கடை,
மாமன் தந்த பொருளைக் கண்டு,
நாணம் கொள்ளும் நகரத்து பெண்கள்.
சின்னஞ்சிறிய சந்தையினிலே
சிதறிய உணர்வுகள் பலநூறு,
உணர்ச்சி களஞ்சியம் பார்க்க ஆசையா?
சந்தையை மிஞ்சியது வேறேது...
சிரிப்பு, கோபம், அழுகை, நாணம்
அனைத்தும் கலந்தது சந்தையடா
விலைகள் கூடிப் போனாலும்
வாங்கிட மறுப்பது இல்லையடா...

இழந்ததை எல்லாம் கொடு இறைவா...!

நாதன் ஒருநாள் என்முன் தோன்றி
நானொரு வரமுனக்கு தருகிறேன் என்றான்,

இழந்தது எல்லாம் திரும்ப வேண்டும் -
இன்றே கொடுத்திடு இறைவா என்றேன்.

பதில் புரியா காரணத்தால்
பட்டியலொன்றை கேட்டான் இறைவன்.

"வறுமை தந்தாய் - உணவை இழந்தேன்,
வயதாகி போக-அழகை இழந்தேன்,
அகவை கூட-இன்பங்கள் இழந்தேன்,
அவளைக் கண்டு - இதயம் இழந்தேன்.

தாயைப் பிரித்தாய் - அன்பை இழந்தேன்,
தூக்கம் பறித்தாய் -அமைதி இழந்தேன்,
துன்பம் கொடுத்தாய் -சந்தோஷம் இழந்தேன்,
தனிமை கொடுத்தாய் -அனைத்தும் இழந்தேன்."
இழந்தது எல்லாம் திரும்ப வேண்டும் -

இன்றே கொடுத்திடு இறைவா என்றேன்.
சிரித்த முகத்துடன் இறைவன் சொன்னான்,
"படிப்பை கொடுத்தேன் - அறியாமை இழந்தாய்,
பண்புகள் கொடுத்தேன் - பகைமை இழந்தாய்,
உடல்நலம் கொடுத்தேன் - நோய்கள் இழந்தாய்,
தோழமை கொடுத்தேன் - சோகம் இழந்தாய்."
இழந்ததை திரும்ப கொடுக்கட்டுமா? -

என்றே என்னிடம் இறைவன் கேட்டான்.
ஐயம் விலகிப் போக -
ஐயன் அன்பை மட்டும் வரமாய் கேட்டேன்.
"வாழ்க" என்று முடித்தான் இறைவன்.
நாதன் மறைந்தான்,
நானும் தெளிந்தேன்...!

FIVE INSIGHTS THAT IMPACTED MY LIFE

Age is just a Number

Age does not indicate anything. You don't have to be at least thirty to start a business. (If you don't believe me google for the world's youngest entrepreneurs you will be surprised). You don't need to think twice before you enroll in a marathon just because you turned 60. (Ms.V. Nanammal is India's oldest Yoga teacher who hails from Coimbatore). You are never too young or too old to pursue your passion. Let pure passion drive you and not age.

I took the first step in being an Engineering Manager. Though people with years of engineering expertise establish in this field, I thought it is not too early to start. I have begun my journey with lot of enthusiasm.

Constructive Criticism

No matter how good you are in something there is always scope for improvement; We are allowed to be a masterpiece as well as a work in progress at the same time.

I learned the most in life by being open to constructive criticism. During my project meetings, I establish ease of communication while conveying my ideas on the table and invite people to comment on it. When I perform constructive criticism on another person's work, I would always start with "To add to your point..." because my intention is not to put down the idea but to enhance it.

Celebrate the people in your life

Life is short; Always be grateful for the people in your life. Out of the 7.7 billion people in this world, the people in your life are chosen by God and given to you, starting from your parents, to your handpicked friends, aunt, uncle, brother, sister, spouse anyone who cares for you, nurture you, want to see you win, help you in adversities. These are your people and take good care of them.

I always feel blessed with a variety of people, be it, friends/family, colleagues and peers. I feel happy in being there for them like they are there for me and take efforts to spend quality time with my people.

Letting Go of Regrets and Resentments

In the journey called life, there will be lot of white spaces that we cannot fill. Failures can happen most of the time. Good news is that we are trying; the bad news is that we fail in our mission. There will be this boy/girl who broke your heart badly; there will be unfulfilled dreams or desires. These moments lead to disappointments(regrets) in life. Sometimes bad things happen to you, which are beyond your control, but your heart goes into deep resentment. Choose to forgive and forget a lot. Let go of the weight that is burdening your heart. Instead of thinking, it should not have happened, tell yourself, it has happened and I will handle it.

Don't ruin the beautiful life that exists outside these regrets and resentments.

One of the biggest challenges in my life is to deal with regret and resentment. I try hard not to let it block my path during the journey of life.

Learning is Life Long

The population of a particular species is inversely proportional to its brain size. Human beings are the only species which surpass this rule, only because of our brain's ability to continuously learn and equip itself for the future.

Today our world is becoming sophisticated and so does the complexity of our problems. To solve these complex problems individuals must continuously equip their brain with knowledge and skill. It is important to collaborate with other individuals from diverse fields.

I feel happy when I continuously equip myself with knowledge of the world around me. I feel the contentment when I solve problems creatively. I love this cycle called learning and would like to continue it and use it for the betterment of humanity until my last breath.
