(73) Abstract Elephant-deterrent systems provide significant value to communities, leading to property damage, safety threats, and mismanagement of elephant populations. The Elephant Deterrent System offers a sustainable, cost-effective, and humane solution by utilizing advanced technology for real-time detection, analysis, and notification. The system integrates RFID motion sensors, ESP32-CAM modules, and Internet of Things (IoT) capabilities to enable continuous monitoring of elephant areas. When motion is detected, the RFID sensor triggers the ESP32-CAM to capture images, which are generated by an AI model trained to identify elephants in low-visibility conditions. Centralized image processing algorithms ensure a prompt and accurate detection, triggering alerts and real-time notifications to authorized personnel. The Elephant Deterrent System uses a secure, cloud-based architecture powered by IIS/ASP.NET, allowing seamless communication across large areas. Alerts are sent via email, SMS, and push notifications, and the system is accessible through the Telegram API, enabling rapid response. By employing facial AI processing, the system minimizes dependency on sound recording, making it ideal for remote areas with limited connectivity. This innovative system represents a harmonious blend of technology and wildlife conservation, promoting coexistence while safeguarding both human lives and elephant populations.
